TO WIPE OUT ITS MORTGAGE BY FIRE

First Baptist Church Will Set New Pace In Religious Business Management, Sunday, July 9.

Perhaps for a century or more, the First Baptist Church, a leading Christian institution for colored people west of the Mississippi River, without regard to denominational lines, labored under the most stuporous of ignorance and prejudice in the direction of closing a very strangely haphazard.

The foundation of the obligation was more like the fable of "Cupid's Lamp" or chasing the "Will O' the Wisp" than like any honest effort to settle an honest debt.

For many times in the course of the struggle it was contended that the church was in a bad way, but just as many times the debt was paid.

that are issued from week to week which deal either directly or indirectly with some phase of Negro life. Indeed, white writers are sure of a ready market for their output when they take any theme that deals with the Negro, whether his conclusions be drawn or not. It would take one's entire time to read the books and magazines articles now appearing - which treat of Negro life.

To those of us who have been long impatient because of the fact that the leading insurance companies have been regarding us as unbusinesslike, it will come as a boon to learn that there

Harry Dugan that the Negro death rate has decreased to a most gratifying degree. Just compare this with "The Negroes die at an alarming rate." The Negro is learning to live a larger life. He is more abundant in life. And he must have to have white writers to tell us that. AND THEREBY COMES A TALE.

It is refreshing to turn from the "Bible" of Stripling's "Brightlight" which he says of Peter Silver "He found-after four years at Harvard, that he was just a Negro," to read what has been written by H. A. Slinde in "White and Black" (Harcourt, Brace & Co.). It is refreshing to find a writer either consciously or unconsciously free of the "Negro" man. His misapprehension of the white man. The scope of the late 19th and

(b) is like on a plantation in Texas, and one of the leading characters in the story, a fatherly man with a good heart, is lost in the hands of a big, lusty, ignorant laborer, finds himself face to face with an awful situation. His son, of course, has made a mistake, and we are told that the fatherly man is "in much of the manner of" in handling his son, and then passes on to an uprising of the Ku Klux Klan. In attempting to stop the onward march of the Klan, the fatherly man is "in the manner of" in the tale, only the same things that other writers have on: there are instances of sympathy on the part of the white people, and the white people are the most scenes, the usual description of encounter of race with race, and he says that the Ku
